A Few Tricks to Save Tons of Water

Water is one of our most valuable resources. Even a small leak can waste 50 or more gallons of water a day. Here are a few tricks to help lower your utility bill and conserve water.

Let the professionals wash your car. Letting the local car wash do the dirty work can save up to 100 gallons. The Clean Water Act requires professional car washes to route car wash wastewater to water treatment facilities or to state-approved drainage facilities designed to protect the environment.

Test your toilet. Undetected internal leaks from tank to bowl can waste up to 100 gallons a day. Drop a dye tablet or food coloring in the tank yearly. If the color of the water in the toilet bowl changes color, your toilet needs a replacement rubber flapper or fill mechanism.

Conduct regular leak checks. Even a small leak can waste 100 gallons of water a day. Check your home frequently for dripping faucets, showerheads, hoses, and sprinklers. Most faucet drips can be fixed simply by replacing a worn-out washer.

Use native plants. One-third of residential water use goes toward watering the lawn and garden. Native flowers, grasses, and shrubs have adapted to regional rainfall rates and require less water. To find plants from your area, visit the Audubon Native Plant Database at www.audubon.org/native-plants.

In addition to saving money on your utility bill, water conservation helps prevent water pollution, as well as overloading municipal sewer systems. For more water conservation tips, visit www.mariettapowerandwater.com.

Celebrate Electrical Safety Month in May

Add checking for potential electrical hazards to your spring cleaning list. So, while you are scrubbing floors and dusting light fixtures, use this checklist to detect potential electrical troubles and consult a qualified electrician if you suspect problems:

- ① Watch for household lights that dim or flicker. Also make sure light bulbs are the appropriate wattage for the size of the fixture. Bulbs that are too high in wattage can overheat and lead to a fire.
- ② Wall outlets, switches, and switch plates should be in good working condition and cool to the touch. If there are small children in the home, consider Tamper Resistant Receptacles (TRRs).
- ③ Make sure all lamp cords are not worn or damaged and are unwrapped — tightly wrapped cords can overheat and burn.
- ④ Use extension cords on a temporary basis only — they are not safe as permanent house wiring.
- ⑤ Listen for crackling, sizzling, or buzzing from outlets.
- ⑥ Frequently blown fuses and circuit breakers that trip often can indicate electrical wiring problems.
